

Why Freshway Foods?

Because of our commitment to...

Excellent Customer Service

Freshway Foods' regional distribution area - east of the Mississippi River from Boston to Miami - allows us to concentrate on a highly focused customer service strategy that meets the specific needs of each and every customer. We have invested extensive dollars into developing superior, state-of-the-art processing, packing and distribution facilities that meet even the most complex requests. We have also strategically positioned our sales team throughout our distribution area to provide personalized customer service and excellent sales support. Our logistics company, Freshway Logistics, operates a fleet of over 50 trucks that provides quick response and a range of exceptional logistics services.

Superior Product Quality

Freshway Foods has direct sources and relationships with top quality growers across the U.S. as well as Mexico and Canada, ensuring our customers receive exceptional quality with every order. In addition, our proximity to customers, as compared to West Coast suppliers, means we can be quicker and much more flexible in the delivery of our products and services. The added value of our line of fresh-cut items means your order is 100% usable which eliminates waste, reduces food prep costs and provides a consistency that you can count on.

Advanced Food Safety Standards

At Freshway Foods, we believe the safety and wholesomeness of our products is the most important thing that we do, and we commit substantial resources to ensure our products are safe for our customers. Our strict food safety standards and quality control specifications begin in the field and are maintained through delivery of the final product. All Freshway Foods' growers and suppliers must pass and maintain strict GAP and GMP standards, our operations are completely HACCP compliant, and we ensure complete product traceability all the way back to the field. For added measure, Freshway Foods exceeds the minimum standards with over 30 audits per year conducted on our facilities and growers from a number of reputable firms. And lastly, in using our own fleet of trucks for customer deliveries, you can be assured we are always in control of the product cold chain.

Sustainable Business Practices

Since our company's inception over two decades ago, Freshway Foods has always sought ways to maximize efficiencies and conservation throughout all areas of our business. As one way to conserve our natural resources, Freshway Foods engages in a water recycling program utilizing high tech filtration systems that provides water for multiple uses within our plant. Chemical usage is greatly reduced through a clean water filtration system and we pre-treat wastewater to reduce energy usage at our city treatment plant. The earth-friendly design of our facility includes sloped floors in all processing rooms to feed waste water into our filtration system, energy efficient refrigeration systems and fluorescent lighting. We also ensure all food waste from our fresh cut processing operation is delivered to area farms for composting or cattle feed. In addition, Freshway Foods recycles all cardboard, paper, plastics and wood including corrugated boxes, pallets and bins.
